Airbnb Market Analysis

Performance Overview

Overview

Season Analysis

Rating Category

Brief Report

Total Listings
2,79,541

Total Reviews
53,73,143

Avg Price
$608.57

Avg Review Score
93.41

1. The 0–100 price range has the highest bookings (121K).
2. The lowest bookings are in the 900–1000 range (5K).
3. There is also a notable 14K bookings for 2000+, showing a small premium segment.

1. Entire place dominates with 65% of total bookings.
2. Private rooms are the second most popular with 31%.
3. Hotel rooms and shared rooms make up less than 3% combined, showing very low demand.

Airbnb Market Analysis

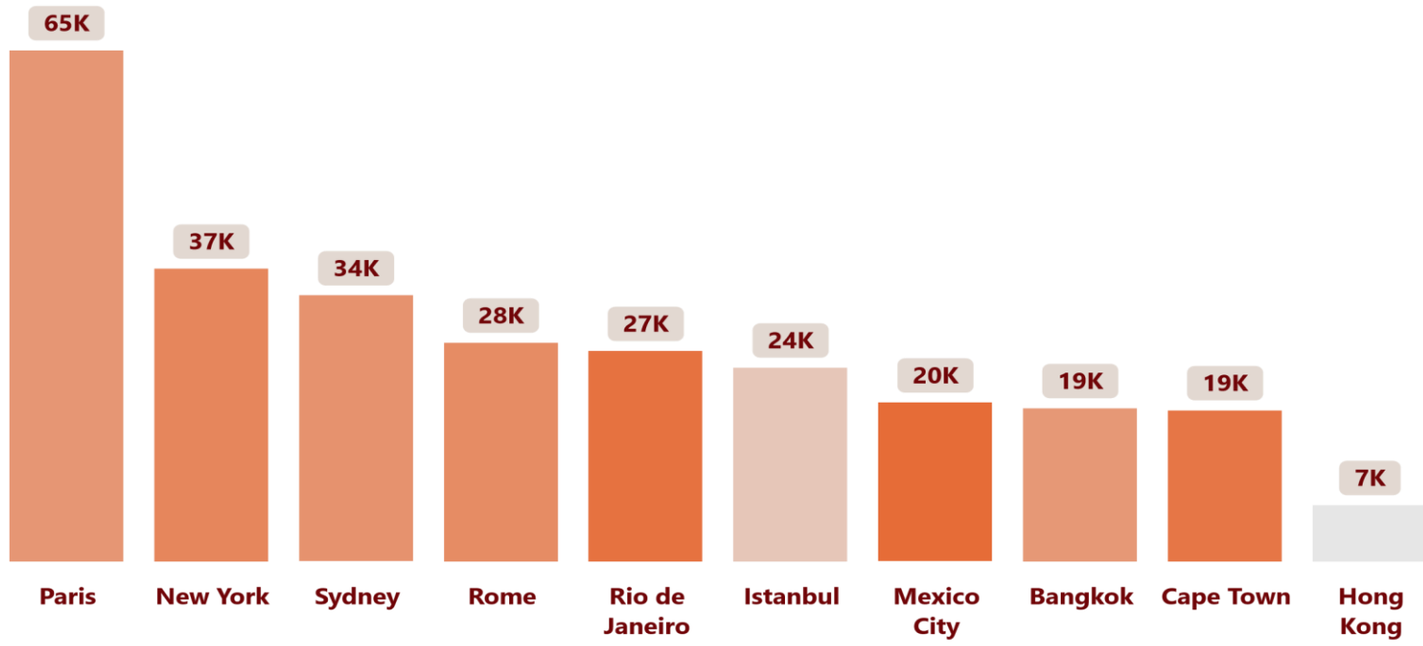
Season Analysis

Overview

Season Analysis

Rating Category

Brief Report



Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	May	Jun	Jul	Aug	Sep	Oct	Nov	Dec

2008	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021

- Seasonal booking pattern: Bookings are highest at the start of the year, gradually decline over the next few months, and rise again around June–July.
- Mid–year fluctuation: After the June–July increase, bookings dip toward the end of the year.
- Possible reasons: These trends likely reflect seasonal travel patterns, vacations, and festive periods, which influence demand across cities.

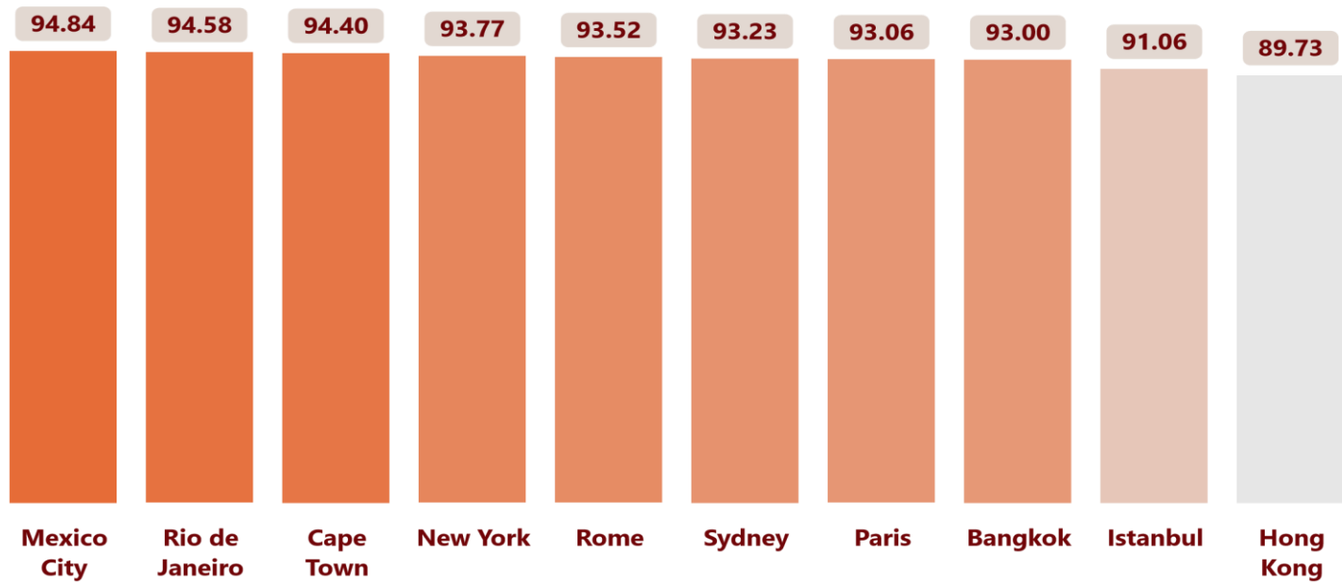
Airbnb Market Analysis

Rating Category

Overview
Season Analysis
Rating Category
Brief Report



Top-rated cities: Mexico City (94.84), Rio de Janeiro (94.58), and Cape Town (94.40) have the highest overall ratings.
Mid-range ratings: New York (93.77), Rome (93.52), Sydney (93.23), Paris (93.06), and Bangkok (93.00) fall in the middle with ratings around 93.
Lower among the group: Istanbul (91.06) and Hong Kong (89.73) have the lowest overall ratings in the chart.

All Rating
Accuracy
Checkin
Location
Cleanliness
Communication
Value

Airbnb Market Analysis

Brief Report

Overview

Season Analysis

Rating Category

Brief Report

Airbnb Market Analysis – Brief Report (Nov 2008 - Mar 2021)

1. Overall Market Overview

The analysis covers 279,541 total listings with 5,373,143 total reviews, indicating a very active global Airbnb marketplace. The average listing price is $608.57, while the average review score is 93.41, showing generally high customer satisfaction across the analyzed cities.

2. Price Range Booking Trends

Bookings are strongly concentrated in the lower price segments.

- The $0–100 price range records the highest bookings (121K), indicating strong demand for budget-friendly accommodations.
- Bookings decrease gradually as price increases, with the $900–1000 range having the lowest bookings (5K).
- A small premium segment (2000+) still records 14K bookings, showing some demand for luxury listings but at a much smaller scale.

3. Property Type Preference

The data shows a clear preference for certain accommodation types:

- Entire homes/apartments dominate the market with 65% of total bookings.
- Private rooms account for 31%, making them the second most popular option.
- Hotel rooms and shared rooms together represent less than 3%, indicating very limited demand for these property types.

4. City Rating Perform

Overall ratings across cities are consistently high (around 89–95).

- Top-rated cities: Mexico City (94.84), Rio de Janeiro (94.58), and Cape Town (94.40).
- Mid-performing cities: New York, Rome, Sydney, Paris, and Bangkok with ratings around 93.
- Lower ratings in comparison: Istanbul (91.06) and Hong Kong (89.73).

Category-specific ratings such as accuracy and check-in remain very high (around 9.5–9.8), indicating strong service quality across listings.

5. Seasonal Booking Trends

The seasonal analysis suggests clear travel patterns:

- Paris records the highest bookings (65K), followed by New York (37K) and Sydney (34K).
- Hong Kong shows the lowest demand (7K) among the analyzed cities.
- Bookings peak at the beginning of the year, decline gradually, and increase again around June–July, likely due to summer travel and holiday seasons.

6. Key Insights

- Budget-friendly listings drive the majority of bookings.
- Entire homes are the most preferred accommodation type.
- Customer satisfaction is high across cities, with most ratings above 90.
- Demand varies by city and season, with major tourist cities like Paris and New York attracting the highest booking volumes.